

Access the applied research, development and commercialization expertise of Ontario's Colleges

CONII colleges work in response to your business needs

By working in response to “market pull” and industry needs, CONII enables SMEs and other partners to bring their research challenges to the college for practical solutions. CONII can provide financial support for industry-driven applied research and commercialization projects in partnership with its member colleges. It’s the full package, from needs assessment and project development to execution.

CONII colleges can provide a variety of technical and business services to their partners, including

- Proof of principle projects and testing
- Product, process and prototype development
 - Industrial design
- Marketing and communications strategies
- Business planning, market research and other commercialization services

Our areas of expertise cover key economic sectors including: Building and Construction, Digital and New Media, Energy, Environmental Technologies, Food Technologies, Geospatial Information Systems (GIS), Health and Life Sciences, Hospitality and Tourism, Information and Communication Technologies (ICT), Manufacturing and Materials, Mobile Technology, Viticulture and Agri-Business, and Water and Waste Water.
