

March 17, 2008
Issue XXXI

Wheels & Wings

We're on the Web!

See us at:

centennialcollege.ca

Centennial's International Reach

Dubai (February 2008)

Testing Knowledge of Hydraulics

See article on page 2

Aircraft Maintenance students writing the Hydraulics exam on March 10, 2008.

UAE, Middle East, North Africa, India and China

Centennial College has experience in providing management, sales, auto technical and auto parts training to the employees of General Motors in 11 countries in the United Arab Emirates, Middle East and Northern Africa. The participants of these programs are mostly expatriates from India and Pakistan and it is GM's intent to have these individuals trained to a Western standard on an ongoing basis. The head office for this program is in Dubai with two training centers in the UAE and seven training centers in the Middle East and Northern Africa. On a broader regional level, Centennial College is delivering specialized technical and retail management programs for such groups as the Oman Ruler's Court, Bahrain and Jordan Public Security Forces and the Al Mansour Automotive group in Egypt. Centennial College is also responsible for the academic management of the Canadian University of Dubai, the Picasso Centennial Animation and Design School (New Delhi), the Vinayaka Centennial Business School (Chennai) and the Shanghai Pharmaceutical School (Shanghai).

Skills Competition at the Toronto Auto Show

Our thanks to all the participants of the Skills Competition conducted at this year's Auto Show. As usual, the competition ran without a hitch and everyone appeared to be totally engrossed in their role either as a competitor or a judge. High school students, teachers, vendors, officials from the Show and from TADA were very pleased with the proceedings. Our compliments as well to the student judges from the Canadian Tire program who were very professional in their work. Pictured below is the team of Canadian Tire program judges.

